

the 9th Asia-Pacific Complex Systems Conference

Complex'09

How to Manage Complexity?

November 4–7, 2009

Surugadai Memorial Hall, Chuo University, Tokyo, Japan

sponsored by Chuo University and
Japan Association for Evolutionary Economics (JAFEE)

Aims:

This series of conferences attracts leading researchers and practitioners from Asia-Pacific regions and overseas, and focuses on all aspects of complex systems. The main theme of COMPLEX 09 is “How to Manage Complexity”. Theory and technology presented at Complex'09 will be of interest to researchers and practitioners who want to know about both theoretical advances and the latest applied developments in Complex Systems. The conference seeks original research and application papers for peer review publication in any area of Complex Systems.

All accepted papers are included in the conference proceedings (CD-ROM), and selected papers will be published as the special issues of Advances in Complex Systems and Journal of Economic Interaction and Coordination.

Scope:

Complexity in Biology	Agents and Complex Systems
Complexity in Business and Marketing	Control of Cascading Failures
Complexity in Economics and Finance	Diffusion Dynamics
Complexity in Engineering Systems	Epidemic Dynamics
Complexity in Nature	Human Behavior Dynamics
Complexity in Organization	Innovation and Marketing
Complexity in Physics	Management of Networked Systems
Complexity in Social Systems	Optimization in Complex Systems
Complex Networks	Synchronization
Social Networks	Traffic Management
	Web Intelligence

Important Dates:

Extended abstract submissions	August 31, 2009(new deadline)
Notification of acceptance	October 1, 2009
Camera-ready submission (Full paper)	October 14, 2009

More details are announced at the conference website
<http://www.nda.ac.jp/cs/complex09>

Conference Co-Chairs

Professor Yuji Aruka (Chuo University, Japan)

Professor Akira Namatame (National Defense Academy, Japan)

Contact person: Associate Prof. Hiroshi Sato (National Defense Academy), e-mail: hsato at nda.ac.jp.